Harlay avocats advises swaive in a €2.2 million pre-seed fundraising

Founded in 2024, the fintech Swaive has raised €2.2 million to help French people grow their dormant money.

Founded last January by Karen-Laure Mrejen, Swaive aims to democratize access to risk-free investments by offering its customers capital-guaranteed short-term horizon investments.

Swaive will act as an intermediary between banks and users, offering bank investments such as term deposits and savings accounts. The solution will cover both personal savings and corporate cash position. The service will be free of charge for users, with Swaive being remunerated directly by the banks as a business provider.

The €2.2 million fundraising round was carried out with Aglaé Ventures, Kima Ventures and Motier Ventures. In addition, business angels, including notably Better Angle, and founders of French startups such as Doctolib and Zenly, were also involved. Thanks to this round of financing, Swaive plans to launch its product in September.

Thibault Chareton (partner) and Charlotte Striffler (senior counsel) advised Swaive in this fundraising.
